Amy Ross and Leslie Sargent

Whether it's a space to live, work or escape, Design Works Interiors' talented team tends to every detail, from initial concept to installation, adding just the perfect nuances that speak to your individual lifestyle and needs. Design Works Interiors helps you make the statement you want a space to make.

Designers Amy Ross and Leslie Sargent both have a talent for breathing life into a space. On a recent project, Ross designed a relaxing, sophisticated living room with a neutral palette of muted grays and luminous silver tones. A bold floral painting adds dimension to the space. The room comes alive from cozy and eclectic additions. Exquisite features like silk window treatments and a mirror top table with a polished silver base make a soft, subtle room feel upscale and inviting.

For another project, a client wanted vibrant colors in the family room and kitchen. Eye-catching original art hangs above the built-in banquette, drawing inspiration for the orange, yellow and green accents. Rich linen draperies and a bold graphic rug complete the room.

"We like to make sure that each space has its own unique look," Ross says. "Our hope is that all clients have an appreciation for their surroundings and truly enjoy the space they live in."

For every project, Design Works Interiors' professionals work hard to listen to the needs of the client. To Ross, it's not just another project; it's a relationship. "I have many people who have been clients and friends for eight to 10 years, either changing or updating rooms from time to time, or simply moving to a new home or vacation home," she says. "Builder clients as well as other colleagues in our industry love our work so much that they have become residential clients along the way."
